for the killing of Edgar Smith, a bank-note for the killing of Edgar Smith, a bank-note printer, was resumed in the Court of Sessions yesterday. O'Dea is a thick-set, stalwart fel-low, with dark features, thick lips, and a re-treating forehead. He was appointed on the force in November, 1886, after a successful givil service examination. It was on the night of Dec. 6, just after he had a year's experience as a patrolmen that he inflicted the fatal blow on Smith. Charles A. Smith testified that his ther was 32 years old and of slight build, weighing only 115 pounds. Dr. Theodore C. Burnett of the Brooklyn Hospital testified that Smith was unconscious when carried to the hospital on the night of Nov. 6. There was a Death occurred in a few hours. There were no other wounds or bruises on the body. Mrs. Mary Squires, wife of Capt. George B. Squires, testified as follows:
"I was standing in the parlor of my house in St. James place, near Fifth avenue, on the night of the occurrence. There was an electric light on the occurrence. There was an electric light on the occurrence. There was an electric light on the occurrence will be street I noticed two young women, and one of them was laughing. I saw O'Dea on one side of Fifth avenue and Policeman Meehan on the other. Meehan crossed over to O'Dea and began to talk to the girls. Smith and Connolly came along and passed by the policemen and girls. Smith turned his head, and, looking at the four, said something, but no attention was then paid to him. O'Dea and Meehan walked down Douglass street with the girls. They were gone about seven minutes when they returned, walking hurriedly. Connolly and Smith came in sight at the same time. Meehan made a rush and caught Connolly and knocked him down twice. O'Dea then struck Smith between the syes, knocking him down also, Smith fell and never moved. I threw open my window and shouted: 'Oh, it is an outrage. It is murder!' I hurried out, and, going to the spot where the man was lying, said to O'Dea: 'Iou have killed the man.' O'Dea did nothing for ten minutes. After that Meehan and he dragged Smith across the street. I think the remark Smith first made when he passed the policemen and the girls was. 'All there?' George L. Bailey and Jacob E. Scaling testified that Smith and Connolly had had several drinks that night before the fatal meeting with the policemen.

Mrs. Mary Clogg of Douglass street, near Fifth Mrs. Mary Clegg of Douglass street, near Fifth avenue, testified:

"While I was looking out of the window that night. I saw Smith and Connolly together in Fifth avenue, and I also saw the two policemen on opposite sides of the street. Two girls walked over toward O'Dea and began talking with him, and Mechan soon crossed over and joined them. The policemen and the girls remained laughing and talking together for about fitteen minutes, and then walked down Douglass street. They soon returned in pairs. When the officers approached Smith and Connolly, Mechan first struck Connolly and knocked him down, and when he got up knocked him down a second time. O'Dea then litted his club and struck Smith over the head. Smith fell and did not get un. I then saw them drag Smith across the street. I am positive that neither Smith nor Connolly either struck or attempted to strike either of the policemen."

O'Dea and Mechan testified that Smith and Connolly insuited the girls and then resisted arrest. O'Dea admitted that he struck Smith "for all he was worth," but that he did not use his club, and that the fracture was caused by his head striking the sidewalk.

The trial will be finished to-day.

John Ackerman of 94 Prospect street had his nose broken by contact with the liquor dealer's sleigh, and was otherwise badly injured about the face. Miss Venie Anderson of 175 Lock street had both her jaws broken in three places, and nearly all her teeth were knocked out. She was otherwise badly bruised about the body and hurt internally, and it was thought at first that she would not live an hour. Yesterday morning the dectors had to pull out every one of her remaining teeth. She will be disfigured for life if she should live, which is very doubtful. Sadle Ackerman. a sister of John Ackerman, was hurt about the head, but not seriously. Mary Garrison of 26 Pearl street was bruised badly about the body. Miss Gertie Senior, daughter of the clerk of the Paterson Police Court, had several teeth knocked out, and it is feared from her symptoms that she has been hurt inwardly. Her face is also badly and it is feared from her symptoms that she has been hurt inwardly. Her face is also badly disfigured, but it is not thought the disfigurement will be pormanent. Harry Cousins of Pearl street was badly bruised about the body. John Greenwood of North Third street was cut about the head and lips, requiring a number of stitches to sew the latter together. George Doremus of North Third street was thrown a distance of twenty feet. He struck a curbstone, but escaped dangerous injury.

HURBYING TO INTERCEPT A CHECK Prof. Nathaniel Sheppard of Saratoga

Springs Dies in the Post Office. Prof. Nathaniel Sheppard of 132 Madison avenue, Saratoga Springs, died suddenly in Chief Clerk Post's room in the New York Por Office at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His errand at the Post Office was to intercept a check which he had sent by mail from Sara toga Springs. He had just run across Broad-toga Springs. He had just run scross Broadway from the store of Eisner & Mendelssohn, 6 Barclay street. In hurrying across he probably brought on the apopleptic or cardiac attack which resulted in his death.

He was 65 years old, and in early life was a Baptist minister. For nearly twenty years he has not preached, but has been a writer and a lecturer. In 1871 and 1872 he was a lecturer in 8t. Andrew's University in Edinburgh, and he also lectured for the Edinburgh Philosophical. Boolety. In 1881 he lectured at the Chatauqua Assembly. He was the author of "Shut up in Paris," The Will Before the Audience," "The Dickens Reader," and other books.

The body will be taken, in chargely friends and sent to Saratoga.

New York Merchants Against the Trunk

Washington, Jan. 24. - The Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day began the hearing in what are known as the car-load lot cases, which the complainants are F. B. Thurber and six others of the Committee of Transportaion of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation; Thomas L. Greene, Manager Merchants' Freight Bureau, New York, and Francis H. Leggett & Co., New York. The re-Francis H. Leggett & Co., New York. The respondents are all of the trunk line railroad companies. Simon Sterne of New York and Thomas L. Greene of New York appeared for the complainants. There was also present in the interests of the petitioners NewYork State Retail Merchants' Association. The substance of the complaints is that the trunk lines, by their freight classifications, promulgated since the Inter-State law went into effect, unjustly discriminate against small shippers of certain varieties of goods by placing less than car-load quantities in a higher class than car-load quantities in a higher class than car-load for the complainants.

The atternoon session of the Commission was entirely consumed in reading a large number of depositions taken in New York some time ago in behalf of the complainants.

They found a solid body of lee reach-ing from the shore of the bay to the Statue of Liberty Enlightening the World. It was such ice as skaters in the violatity of New York only strike once in about ten years. The main part of it was smooth as glass, with the sort of scapy surface that skates glide over without the least friction, and which makes a skater of sixty winters feel like a lad of sixteen. Here and there rough ripples of ice impeded the progress somewhat, but there were places where amooth circles hundreds of feet in diameter could be enjoyed to the heart's content, especially when going with the wind.

Two races were on the programme, one a straightaway quarter-mile dash and the other a mile with one turn. Mr. S. J. Montgomery of the Manhattan Athletic Club and Mr. G. Daniell measured the courses. Mr. W. R. Curtis of the New York Athletic Club was referee, and Messra. Montgomery and Thompson were judges.

A Dead Dog Wins in a Pit.

A story comes from Long Island City that two dogs, Ben and Spot, fought in a pit near Calvary Cemetery yesterday morning for two hours, and that then, while each was being sponged off, Ben died in his handler's arms. The handler was the only man who knew it, and he was not a man to throw away a single chance. He heid the dog's head up with one hand and kept him in motion in such a way that nobody noticed what had happened. When the other dog was let go it happened that he had had enough fight and he turned tail and ran. So the referee awarded the victory to the dead dog, and, the story says, his owner got the stakes. The names of the referee and the handlers in this remarkable fight are not reported, but Ben is described as a brindle owned in Long Islaud City, and Spot as a white and black buildog belonging to a well-known saloon keeper in Hariem. and he was not a man to throw away a single Reedham White Orien in Eleven Rounds— A Desperate Struggle.

Sr. Pavit, Jan. 24.—One of the most desperately contested prize fights which ever took place in Minnesota occurred at Norwood, a small station on the Hastings and Dakota Railsmall station on the Hastings and Dakota Rail-road, this afternoon. About Iwenty-five sport-ing men of his city went out this morning with the contestants, Danny Needham, the light-weight champion of the Northwest, and Jimmy Griffin of Grand Rapida, Mich. The fight was for a purse of $200, with skin gloves and to a finish. Needham's age is 21, Griffin's 20. Both men were in excellent condition, and appeared to be evenly matched, although Griffin had the to be evenly matched, although Griffin had the advantage of four pounds in weight. Both showed the effects of careful training. Billy Hankins and his friend acted as the seconds for Needham, while Ed Jackson and Billy Robinson acted for Griffin. C. W. Ryder of the St. Paul Neus was referee. The betting was about even. "Time" was called at 2 P. M.

The first round began with terrific fighting, and a terrible right-hander from Griffin floored Needham. Needham came to the scratch in time, however, and the fighting was desperate to the end of the round, and slightly in favor of Griffin.

Becond—Both men began cautiously, and Griffin.

Second—Both men began cautiously, and then did some hard fighting for a minute.

Third—Both were cautious and watched for an opening. Needham jabbed Griffin in the stomach, but without effect.

Fourth—Both sparred for an opening. Finally Needham led, but got a hot one from Griffin in return.

Sixth-When Griffin came up it was discovered that his lip was cut and was bleeding. He sailed in, but received a terrific smash in the mouth, which sent him to earth.
Seventh-Now it looked to be anybody's fight. Both men gave and took severe punishment. Needham led, and reached Griffin's damaged lip again; then a clinch, followed by each man giving the other a smasher; then they clinched again. Needham gave Griffin another terrible smash on the mouth, and Griffin

Ninth—Needham rushed his man, and landed another hard blow on his favorite spot. Griffin's mouth. Griffin went to the floor like a log. When he got on his feet again he returned the blow on Needham's head. Griffin was groggy, but showed no signs of weakening.

Tenth—The round opened with both men cautious, especially Griffin. Needham got in a good one, but it was returned with interest. Eleventh—Griffin came up very groggy, but dead game. It was evident that it was only a question of time now when he would be knocked out. Needham got in a stinger on Griffin's right eye. Then followed duck after duck. A moment later Griffin got a terrible smash in the mouth, which settled him. Time of fight, 45 minutes.

At the conclusion of the fight Needham took up a collection for Griffin.

But Wall street and investors generally seem to have undiminished faith in the common sense of the people, and that it will, as it always does in this country, triumph in the end, The proof of this is the tenacity with which securities are held through the present protracted dulness. There was again to-day a good deal of pounding of stocks, but values did not suffer worth speaking of. If one were to believe all he hears in Wall street, the conclusion is inevitable that all of the bull pools have sold out, and the last operator upon the long side has liquidated. Reports from abroad, which cannot be confirmed here, of a contemplated advance in cable rates, doubtless helped Western Union. The old bear party and the traders laid their combined weight upon Union Pacific, and it yielded 1 % cent. Their sales were based upon what, to most men, appears to be a legislative strike at Washington. Even the utterly forsaken Gould stocks braced up a little. The current rumor is that while the people who have charge of Mr. Gould's affairs in his absence are not averse to a decline in Missouri Pacific, which he and they sold at much higher figures, they are really pained at the gravitating tendency of Manhattan, since they have not yet unburdened themselves of that. The Devil Fish Described by Hugo

Is not a more tenacious monster than malaria, whether it takes the form of chills and fever, bilions remittent, ague cake or dumb ague. Like the octopus of the story, it clasps the victim in its tentaculæ, and folda him closer and closer in a horrible embrace. Attacked with Hostetter's Stomach Bittera however, it gradually relaxes its tramendous grip. Snally abandons it, and the quon-dam sufferer, liberated at last rejuces in the sense of new-born freedom, engendered by the restoration of complete health. Dyspepsia, too, and constipation those old and remorseless enemies of the buman family, give ground and are finally driven from the field by this Napoleon of remedies the greatest the purest in the family pharmacopula. Rheumatiam succumbs to it, so do kidney troubles. The nerves, when overstrained, regain quietude and vigor by its aid, and the ability to rest tranquilly and eat with zest are increased by it. Resort to it in time and avoid unnecessary suffering.

I will not try to describe what I went through. Let it suffice that none of the means taken produced any leading benefit until I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. of Rendout, N. I. Graddauly the more serious symptoms began to yield. The sensitive atomach began to direst the food. The urine passed more freely, the pain ceased—the calcinus or stone having been dissolved by the medicine. From this time my recovery was rapid and permanent, and I am ready, in public or in private, to lestify that Dr. David Kennedy's Pavorite Remedy saved my life.

NOR FEBRUARY contains the second of Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson's series of charming monthly paper. The New York Tribune says in referring to them: "The matter is of itself enough to interest every person in the least interested in literature, and the manner of it is such as to make us ask again of him for the hundredth time, as it was asked of Macaulay. Where did he get that style !"". In his present article, entitled "The Lantern Bearers," Mr. Stevenson refers to picturesque memories of his
